Education

City College, Central Luzon, Pampanga Philippines

- Bachelor of Science in Information Technology. City College of San Fernando(P).
- Followed by my passion for computer programming and web development classes harnessing the power of technology, creativity, and innovation.
- Currently I am a second-year student, Still learning but determine to finish this course.

About me

In the past few years, I studied HTML/CSS/JS but it's not continuously because I am a college student, I have studies and responsibilities that need to prioritize however, because of pandemic I turn this event to a good opportunity to study more and find a job that suit for me. Currently, I studied Shopify and I created a store from it, you can look it in my project section. I am a second-year college IT student and I'm very passionate about this course because I love making from nothing to something. and I'm deepening my knowledge in Shopify and also adding more experience to make a wonderful responsive website. I never stop learning and I believed little things make big things happen.
